

The Great Feast

house was filled with guests and every couch at the banquet was occupied. What guests they were, and what a feast they had! All the people who had been first invited were shut out. They had excused themselves, and therefore the king just passed them by.

Here, Jesus was preaching a sermon as well as telling a story. He was saying that God was the great King who had prepared a feast. Jesus Himself was the King's son, in whose honour the feast was spread. The feast itself was the fellowship of those who love God. The people who were first invited and excused themselves were His own people, the Jews. The guests from the highways and byways, from the streets and lanes, the poor and the blind and the crippled, representing people of every colour and the countries in all the world. To them the message of joy came, for the invitation is world-wide: "Whosoever will, let him come." What a feast it is! What love and kindness! The invitation is for all. We can say, "No," and many do today, making excuses they may regret even now, and will certainly regret in eternity. Yet, each and every individual person should realise that they CAN actually say, "Yes!"

So that no one should be overlooked, and so no one should overlook the invitation, it is repeated on the very last page of the Bible. No one can miss it. I cannot miss it. You cannot miss it. "The Spirit and the Church say, Come. And he that hears, let him say, Come. And he that is thirsty, let him come: he that will, let him come" (Rev. 22:17).

"Oh God, wake up the dead!" I prayed this privately...I thought! Someone overheard me and said, "That's rude!" R.U. Awake?

We Must Go Deeper!

by
G. L. Mancino

There are certain people today to whom I must give very high praise. One such modern hero, Aaron Russo, died on August 24, 2007. Though Aaron had been involved in many worldly "enterprises," (that I would have loved, before I got genuinely "saved"!) it is how he closed his life that GREATLY impresses me. Russo used his powerful movie-making skill to produce his final documentary which every person should watch! Though it involves some very scary stuff that is happening in the USA, Russo rightly tells that it effects the entire world.

If you type in Google "America: Freedom to Fascism-Aaron Russo," you will see it. Before you watch this 111 min. documentary, type in the same title, then add "—The Interview" to see the 37 min. interview which serves as a very good introduction. Both are a must!

Alex Jones, that I mention on the right inside page, and in the red print below, knew and also interviewed Russo. These men are not crazy conspiracy theorists. Both of them know what they are saying, and both openly quote their sources of information.

Present world chaos (greater than most people realise!) is actually a spiritual battle with evil, and comes from Satan. For each of us to be able to fight this evil, we must deal radically with any and all evil within ourselves, otherwise we will stop too short of the necessary cure. THIS is the reason I say we must "Go Deeper!" The cure must go deeper, otherwise there remains the seeds for lying, cheating, oppression, looting and crimes of every sort. ALL sin must go.

The Great Feast

Selected and edited (Powerful lessons from Jesus. See Luke 14:16-24)

The Gospel is good news which brings fullness of peace and joy. When "the lost sheep" was found there was joy in heaven. To His disciples Jesus said, "These things have I spoken unto you, that My joy may be in you, and that your joy may be made full." Genuine joy is a central element in TRUE Christianity.

To Jesus, "true religion" included joy. He spoke of it as a wedding feast—like the joy of a glad festival. "There was once a king," said Jesus in one of His "parable" stories, "who made a great feast for his son." What a feast it was! The king's servants prepared long for it, and at last, everything had been done. The king, happy in what he was doing, called his servants and sent them out to his friends and his son's friends, saying: "Come; for all things are ready." They knew about the feast and about the long preparation. When the word came to them they all rose up quickly and attended the king's feast. Well, they did nothing of the sort! That is what they were expected to do, but they did no such thing. They refused. They declined. They said, "No!"

Perhaps they did not say no as bluntly as that, but each of them began to excuse themselves. All those who had been invited had an excuse. One man said, "I have bought a field, and I need to go out and see it." What a silly excuse! Another man said, "I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to try them out." How ridiculous! Still another said, "I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come." That was even more silly. The excuses came thick and fast, and all the time the feast was ready and the king was waiting.

No wonder the king was angry. But even though his friends would not come, he was determined to hold the feast, so he sent the same trusted servant out into the streets and byways of the city and told him to bring in the poor and the blind and the crippled and the lame, and this was done. What an assembly of guests in the king's banquet hall — the poor and the handicapped of all sorts! There were possibly hundreds of them, but there was room for more. Again the servant went, begging everybody he met to come, until the Sept 22 Daily Mail's article "Traitors in the Family," about Stalin's Russia provoked online comments that Britain is fast becoming the same Crises like 9/11, bank crashes, etc. are purposely orchestrated to frighten and control people. The article above tells us of God's Great Feast, which has been spread out and offered to all. The question is, "Do you have an appetite for it? Or are you happy to live for a fast-deteriorating world? God's Judgment IS coming!"

When Jesus Was Not Welcome

(Selected and Edited)

(See Mark 5:1, etc. and Luke

“They began to plead with Him to go away.” Mark 5:17

We can hardly imagine any person asking Jesus to go away. He had come to their coast to bring them great blessings. He had power to heal the sick, to open blind eyes, to make the lame walk, to scatter all kinds of blessings among the people. He had begun His work of grace as soon as He landed by curing their most terrible case of demon possession. When you read that true story, you realise that Jesus can help anyone today! He likely would have continued performing other works of mercy and love if they had not pleaded with Him to leave. It was probably all because of the loss of their herd of pigs. If that was the way Christ's work was going to affect them, they did not want Him to go any further.

Some people feel the same way when a true work of God begins in their community. They are opposed to the DEEP WORK of Christ because it interferes with their business. When people allow God to have His way in their lives, it has a knock-on effect on their sinful habits, and some friends and businesses prefer the people to stay in their sins! Of course, many wish to remain undisturbed in their sins, but will maintain a veneer of religion.

Jesus did not stay after these people asked Him to go away. He would not stay where He was not wanted. In a sense,

He carried back the “gifts” He had come to leave with them. The sick, the lame, the demonised, the dying and the sinful all remained untouched by His hand of mercy. Does anyone now ever ask Christ to depart when He comes with blessings? It would be a sad thing for Christ to turn away from a heart because He is not wanted. Consider the words of this song:

*Patiently, tenderly pleading,
Jesus is standing today;
At your heart's door He knocks as before.
Oh, turn Him no longer away!*

*Gracious, compassionate mercy
Brought Him from heaven above;
Caused Him to wait just outside your gate.
Oh, yield to His wonderful love!*

*Now is the time to receive Him;
Grant Him admission today.
Grieve Him no more, but open the door,
And turn Him no longer away. ■*

“We have put man on the throne and now our hearts refuse to worship him.” This is an exhausted humanism! Man has had his day and has turned it into darkness. A main reason for failure, even among sincere Christians, can be illustrated by what happened after a storm one day. A vine had reached its delicate fingers up and across the empty space until it grasped the branch of a pine tree. It had arrived! But the morning after the storm it was a poor drooping thing with its head hanging to the earth — the branch had broken in the storm. The vine had fastened itself upon a rotten branch instead of the strong central healthy trunk. Many are like that — fastening upon some dead branch, even of Christianity, but do not get to the central trunk, Christ. The storm comes and they go down along with the dead branch. We must have living contact (read John 15) with the central trunk—the central reality: Christ. All else will be found to be just what it really is in the light of eternity: bursting bubbles and sinking sand.

Guilt, Pardon, Acceptance

A few illustrations—
Take them to heart,
and apply them.

A little boy stole five pounds from his father, and his conscience troubled him so he made up his mind to tell him, but he was afraid. When he finally did tell him the father was furious at first. Then he softened and took the boy up in his lap and told of his stealing thirteen dozen eggs from his mother and selling them. The little boy put his arms around his father's neck and said, “Dad, we are partners together, aren't we? We are both thieves.” They were partners in condemnation. They needed to be partners in forgiveness—forgiveness from each other and from God. This forgiveness is not achieved; it is received. It is the gift of God.

A banker's little boy stood by his desk. The little fellow was standing in a shaft of light falling on the floor, and he said, “Daddy, I'm standing in the smile of God.” The banker said wistfully, “I wish I could stand in the smile of God.” Jesus IS God's smile, and when we stand in Him we stand in the smile of God.

For over 150 years a cannon ball was protruding from the stone wall of a church in Norway, a relic of the Napoleonic War of 1812. Many have the ball of condemnation still stuck in their souls, reminding of guilt and sin.

Through Jesus, guilt can go because the sin can go—through true forgiveness!

James Thurber wrote the short story: The Owl Who Was God. Briefly, the owl's grand reputation arose when it came fresh hatched that he could see them in the dark. One animal told another, and they came, one after the other with questions, which the owl answered... well, seemed to answer. The animals wondered if the owl could also see in the day time. At high noon the owl walked out very slowly, which gave him the appearance of dignity. His weary eyes, large and staring, gave him the air of importance. “Hes God!” they repeated, and followed him as he walked onto the concrete highway. A hawk gave the alarm that a lorry was coming, but they all followed the owl, still crying “Hes God!” — until they were all run over. Some of them were merely injured, but most, including the owl, were killed. Moral: You can fool too many of the people too much of the time (Many fool themselves more than anyone else. We are trying to give the warning, like the hawk, and we pray that many of you listen and take action.

Besure, the “lorry” is coming!

Truth IS Stranger Than Fiction!

The owl story above is not so “far-fetched! After many generations of careful, though very evil planning and placing, an elite group are very close to closing the web of control and slavery on us all. Many of them meet annually for weird and evil purposes, including a pagan ceremony called The Cremation of Care (basically meaning to kill your conscience!), which is done at a 2,000 acre location called The Bohemian Grove in California. This actually involves a mock(?) sacrifice to the owl-god, Moloch! Some extreme and untrue claims have been made about this, but this evil, power-hungry group DOES exist. They are tied in with the Bilderbergs and other power-mongers. Alex Jones succeeded in filming inside the property. See it at infowars.com and prisonplanet.com.
