

A drawn-out court case in the USA state of Pennsylvania surrounded the teaching of “Intelligent Design” in the classroom alongside the customary evolutionary theory (which has replaced the longstanding traditional teaching across America of Divine Creation).

First of all, it should be noted that “Intelligent Design” is NOT a synonym for Divine Creation. Unfortunately, the term “intelligent design” in reference to how life started could simply be a clever and concealed way to hide a person’s belief, not in God, but in intelligent aliens! This was the belief of Francis Crick, an English sharer of the 1962 Nobel Prize for the discovery of DNA.

Apparently, another defence for Divine Creation has taken place in the USA state of Kansas. In both Pennsylvania, and now Kansas, the desire of some of the citizens, including school board members, is to re-insert Divine Creation in the classroom.

Scientific American magazine has disgraced itself by trying to discredit the teaching of Divine Creation by use of ridicule. To resort to such a journalistic strategy of name-calling (referring to the “six dimwits” of the Kansas Board of Education) demonstrates the magazine’s gross childishness, to say the least. Such journalism undermines its own credibility.

Scientific American hopes to portray the teaching of Divine Creation in the classroom as lowering the standard of education, when their own journalism provides a grand example of low and foolish standards. In fact, Scientific American, in its own supposed field of expertise, appears to be in the same league as other groups who claim the label “American,” yet do their utmost to destroy the foundations of America. Their distasteful mockery of the Kansas action reveals their own wilful ignorance. It is such as these that do to the public the very things they accuse Christianity of doing, as indoctrinating.

Regarding the alleged “separation of church and state,” I felt it beneficial to supply the reader with a list of the Preamble of the Constitution of every state in America, all of which makes it abundantly clear that there is central place given to God Almighty in TRUE Scientific Americanism.

HOW COULD 50 STATES BE WRONG?

founders did not intend for there to be a separation of God and state, as shown by the fact that all 50 states acknowledge God in their state constitutions:

After reviewing acknowledgments of God from all 50 state constitutions, one is faced with the prospect that maybe, just maybe, the so-called “American Civil Liberties Union” and the out-of-control federal courts are wrong!

“Those people who will not be governed by God will be ruled by tyrants.” --William Penn

In one of Jesus’ story sermons He spoke of the world’s rejection of Him, having them say “We will not have this man to reign over us!” (Luke 19:11-27, especially v.14). This is the same as pictured in the international attitude of rebellion against and hatred of God and His Messiah Christ, as seen in Psalm 2.

Increasingly, this world is choosing to silence God and the Bible in practical preference to atheism, materialism and humanism of all types. Nations are made up of individuals, and as an individual, you do not need to follow the crowd in the various species of paganism (though often sprinkled with occasional religious talk!). Jesus said that the “broad way leads to destruction” (Matthew 7:13), and of course He means in Hell.

Back to the beginning of this article— We repeat that humanistic, atheistic science very frequently tries to ridicule “Creationist” teaching in its attempt to destroy it. Sadly, this strategy is sometimes (dare we say, often?) accompanied by the wilful covering-up of known facts which undermine the arguments of those fighting so hard against the Creator God spoken of in Psalm 2 (mentioned above).

The alternative to rejecting God from our hearts, our homes, our halls of learning and halls of politics, etc., each individual, each family and each nation may put the brakes on and refuse to go on further in this Satan-inspired rebellion, and turn back to God with everything they have, “lock, stock and barrel,” as they said in days gone by. This is NOT an impossibility. The God that made us is also the Founder of all science, anyway. Therefore, we may take any and every course of genuine study and bow before the Divine Originator of it is awe and worship.
